

RAID OF ALLEGED BOOZE DIVES NETS SEVEN ARRESTS

LITTLE GIRL'S MITTEN TAKEN FROM RIVER AT KINGSTON THIS NOON

Dispells Theory Children Were Kidnapped Saturday.

Belief that Isabel Keifer and Roger Brown, Kingston, DeKalb county children who have not been seen since Saturday, when they were at play on the ice of the Kickwaukee river, might have been kidnapped, was shaken this noon when one of the men who has been dragging the river through the hole cut in the ice under the railroad bridge where the children were last seen, brought up on his hook a mitten which has been identified as having been little Isabel's.

The finding of the little mitten is held to be proof that the tot's bodies are in the river, which belief is accentuated by the actions of the Keifer family dog, which refuses to be driven away from the river bank under the bridge, near where the children were so happily at play Saturday. Time and time again the dog has been driven away, but each time he returns to his vigil at the spot where he was last at play with his little mistress.

Findings of the little mitten, mute evidence of the tragedy which befell the two children, has stimulated the efforts of the searchers and renewed determination was evident among the hundreds of workers, who are searching for the bodies.

FEARED KIDNAPPING.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 11.—Members of the families of Isabel Keifer and Roger Brown, the two children believed to have been drowned while they were sliding on the ice Saturday near their home in Kingston, Ill., today expressed the fear that they had been kidnapped.

The theory advanced since their disappearance was that they had fallen into an air hole in the ice, but after an almost continuous search for the bodies beneath the ice, relatives have become convinced that the bodies are not there.

Miss Nell Keifer, an aunt of Isabel, reported the opinion that the children would be held for ransom and said that she believed her grandmother might soon be approached with such a demand. The great grandmother of Roger Brown, said to own considerable property, may also receive news of the children, relatives believe.

No Objections Filed on Sewer Proposals

At the regular weekly meeting of the city council last evening, property owners on the streets affected by local improvement ordinance No. 203, providing for the construction of sewer and cement paving, were present but offered no protest, practically all favoring the improvement. The council took no final action on the proposition.

Mayor Mark D. Smith appointed Mrs. Charles Russell and Lucy Badger to serve as members of the board of directors of the Dixon Public hospital, the council unanimously confirming the appointments.

Lee Co. Farm Loan Assn. Held Meeting

The stockholders of the Lee County National Farm Loan association held their annual meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Dixon National Bank building and elected the board of directors as follows:

A. T. Tourtellott, B. F. Hoover, Charles M. Whitebread, C. H. Larkins and James A. Tate.

The directors then held a meeting and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—A. T. Tourtellott.
Vice President—James A. Tate.
Secretary and Treasurer—F. X. Newcomer.

Peniston Will Take Position in Chicago Post Office Friday

Oscar Peniston, floor man at the Nett & Co., garage, has resigned his position there and Friday will go to Chicago to take a position in the mail department of the central postoffice, for which he passed an examination in the fall, and to which he was appointed last week. Oscar has been a resident of Dixon for the past seven years and has many friends who will wish him success in his new position.

Interurban Jumped Track; No One Hurt

Traffic on the S. D. & E. Interurban line was tied up for over an hour yesterday afternoon when the 3 o'clock west bound car jumped the track west of Prairieville. Aside from the delay in the service no damage was done, although the passengers got a real shaking up.

NEW PRESIDENT OF DAIL IS NOW DIRECTING GOVT.

Griffith and Cabinet to Proceed with Ut- most Care.

Dublin, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Arthur Griffith, new president of the Dail Eireann and his cabinet assumed to day the places to which they were elected yesterday. It was recognized that careful work was necessary if pitfalls were to be avoided during the full month which must elapse before final ratification of the treaty creating the Irish Free State was possible.

On Feb. 14, the Dail will re-convene to ratify formally the document which it approved as the representative body of Irish republic.

The possibility of the proverbial slip's twist cup and lip was not ignored and it was feared in some quarters that the republicans might use the interval in attempting to turn popular followers to their side.

Meanwhile, no ugly forebodings haunted the new Dail leaders. They claimed to have assumed their tasks backed by the utmost good will of the majority of Ireland's population. The reported direction of Great Britain to liberate immediately all political leaders, would be strength in their hands against any extremist efforts on this subject, and if the British troops and other signs of "foreign domination" were rapidly removed their troubles would be further lightened.

WAITING APPROVAL OF GOVERNMENTS ON FORTIFICATION PACT

Tentative Settlement of Question Reached By Delegates.

Washington, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Delegation heads of the five powers continued today their discussion of the naval limitation treaty to clear up remaining details of phraseology, while the full naval committee of the conference was called to meet later in the day to go over the completed sections of the pact. Agreement was reached by the delegation heads yesterday on all articles of the treaty draft, except for details of the Pacific fortifications agreement, on which a tentative settlement was reached subject to approval by each government. This was awaited today while they went to work on the several annexes attached to the treaty and also the final drafting of several of its articles.

The question arising under the fortifications article which provides for settlement on a status quo basis was understood to relate to the status of certain small islands lying to the southward of the principle Japanese group and whether these are to be included in the area within which no further fortifications can be erected. The Japanese delegates were confident, however, that Tokyo would approve promptly the delimitation tentatively agreed to by them in the American draft of the article.

Gas and U-Boat Causes.

Another question still awaiting final decision today was whether the submarine and poison gas resolutions adopted by the five powers will be included in the naval treaty or made the subject of a separate agreement. On this a growing inclination was understood to have been revealed at the meeting of the "big five" to adopt the later course, on the ground that the resolutions covering those questions did not properly belong in the same instrument with the provisions for tonnage limitation.

Meanwhile, the Shantung negotiations held out new promise of an agreement in the direction of the Japanese and Chinese delegates to resume their separate conversation of the question of today without attempt to settle for the present the central disagreement over return of the Tsin-Tsuanfu railroad, but to clear away other points of difference. It was hoped discussion of the less controversial details might develop a method of solution for the railroad problem.

OFFICERS CALLED TO REFUTE TESTIMONY OF FORMER SERVICE MEN

Colonel and Surgeon in Denial of Charges of Witnesses.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Jan. 11.—Army officers were called in today by the senate committee investigating charges that American soldiers had been hanged in France to check up testimony of former service men as to the alleged illegal executions.

Dr. H. E. Ross, of Danville, Ill., a battalion surgeon with the Sixteenth Infantry, declared he heard of no lynchings at Gondrecourt, and that he never heard of any hangings in that locality. Robert Harrison of Wilmington, N. C., had testified that he saw a Mexican lynched near Gondrecourt and that the body was taken to a hospital, with rope marks around the neck.

"If a man in the Sixteenth Infantry had been hanged as charged would you have heard of it?"

Chairman Brandegee asked.

"Unquestionably," he replied.

"Was a body with a rope stub around the neck ever sent to your hospital?"

"No, sir."

Senator Watson presented to the committee an affidavit by J. A. McDonald of Youngstown, Ohio, setting forth that he was at the Bassens prison in France when Private Fitzgerald was shot and killed by "a sergeant, Cooper or Kuippa of New Castle, Pa."

McDonald said he was ready to testify in support of recent testimony to that effect by Edward Duner of San Francisco.

Execution at Night.

Details of the execution of a soldier at Givres, on June 20, 1919, was given by Colonel Charles J. Symonds of Camp Sherman, Ohio, who was in command there at the time. The gallows, he said, was erected the night of May 19. The execution was secret and was not known generally until the next day.

"I saw no reason for making it public because the crime was not committed at Givres," he added. "I directed that nobody should attend, but a certain number of witnesses." "Was there any other gallows at Givres?"

Chairman Brandegee asked.

"Not while I was there, from February, 1918, to July, 1919."

Some witnesses heretofore had testified that guards had told them of the hanging of upwards of a dozen soldiers at Givres.

"If other hangings had occurred there would you have known it?"

"I most certainly would."

Col. Symonds was shown a picture of a gallows at Givres, as submitted by a former service man.

"It corresponds closely to the one at Givres; I believe it is the one I ordered erected there," he said.

Questioned regarding testimony that two negroes were lynched near Givres, Colonel Symonds said he could not conceive of anything of the kind happening without a report of it reaching him.

Senator Watson, democrat of Georgia, whose charges of illegal executions led to the investigation sharply cross examined Colonel Symonds concerning the "secrecy" surrounding the execution at Givres.

"Was the soldier hanged in a uniform?" Senator Watson asked.

"Yes. The body was taken down and buried in the regular way. The grave was in a separate part of the cemetery."

Dixon Water Given O. K. By University

The state water survey division of the Illinois university, has completed a chemical analysis of water used by residents of Dixon and furnished by the Dixon Water Co., a report of which has just been received. The reports say:

"The water is only moderately mineralized and is about average in hardness for ground waters of this state. If anything, it is of somewhat better quality than is usually found in deep wells. The hardness is all carbonate temporary and would not be expected to form hard, adherent scales in boilers."

The test further shows positively no trace of any form of bacteria and is as pure as any drinking water to be obtained in the state.

Dixon High to Meet Mendota on Friday

The Dixon high school basketball team, which has started its season with indications of having one of the fastest quietest ever developed at the local institution, will clash with the Mendota high school aggregation at the south side high school gymnasium Friday evening, and fans are anticipating a great game. A preliminary contest will be played, the main game to start at 8 o'clock.

YEP, THIS IS THE WEEK OF THE BIG THAW

TO REOPEN LYNDON BANK DECISION OF DIRECTORS TUESDAY

Will Make Good Shortage Caused By Buzzell's Peculations.

Stockholders of the First State Bank of Lyndon at a conference held yesterday afternoon decided to assume the payment of the shortage in the bank's funds, incurred by the peculations of Cashier Arthur Buzzell, former Dixon man, and as soon as the state bank examiners have completed their work and necessary legal steps can be taken the bank will be reorganized and reopened for business.

At yesterday's conference, which was attended by all the stockholders of the bank, the state examiners and State's Attorney Besse of Whiteside county, it was announced by the examiners that their check, uncompleted, had thus far revealed a shortage of $32,000, and it was stated this sum would be augmented in all probability as the examination continued.

It was further announced that in his note, left in the bank's safe, Buzzell had stated he couldn't account for the expenditure of so much money except in high living. His peculations are said to have covered a number of years, starting at about the time he began the construction of a new home in Lyndon.

No warrant has as yet been issued for the arrest of the missing cashier, but it is stated complaint will probably be filed before the end of the week upon which the necessary papers will be issued. The prosecuting attorney will also seek the indictment of Buzzell by the next Whiteside county grand jury.

Amputation of Foot May Be Decided On

The condition of Lelloy McDermott, Harmon young man who suffered from exposure following an accident to his automobile Saturday, was somewhat improved today, but it is possible the amputation of his right foot may be necessary. The attending surgeon is hopeful of saving the member, however, but the toes will have to be amputated, it is stated.

Furnace Gas Fired and Burned Farmer

J. A. Prindaville of west of the city is suffering from burns received in a peculiar manner Saturday. While he was firing the furnace at his home gases in the fire chamber suddenly exploded and a flash of flame leaped out, badly searing his right hand and arm to the elbow.

Heavy Snow on Way for North Section of U. S., Forecast

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Jan. 11.—"Heavy snow" was predicted by the weather bureau today for practically the whole north portion of the United States with the probability that the middle Atlantic tier will also be blanketed by tomorrow.

The wide reaching snowfall will be accompanied on the Atlantic coast north of the Virginia capes, by gales of marked intensity, the forecast said and a general warning to shipping was issued.

New England, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, the Great Lakes and the upper Ohio Valley, the bureau indicated, may expect conditions which will make sledding popular among the juveniles.

"Considerably colder weather will overspread the region east of the Mississippi River within the next 36 hours," the official forecaster said.

Two in Hospital as Result of Hold-Up

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Benton, Ill., Jan. 11.—Sadie Zenia is held a prisoner in a hospital at Christopher and Tom Stanley is in a hospital here in connection with the hold-up early Saturday of Thomas Sties, night chief of police of Buckner. They were taken to the hospital suffering from bullet wounds said to have been received when they attempted to rob a farmer near Jeffries.

The woman and Stanley are alleged to have been frequent recently of a cucumber odor in the water used by New Yorkers. Water department officials said today they had traced the cause to the synura, a microscopic organism which imparts an oily flavor to water, and that they have killed the "bug" which has appeared in large numbers in the Kensico reservoir. But they explained they had not been able to remove the oil which it contains. Authorities are agreed, however, that it is not injurious to health.

The Kensico reservoir temporarily had been shut off from the mains which supply the city and copper sulphate is being used to kill the objectionable "bugs" but it is estimated that it will take at least a week to get the water back to normal.

INTEREST OF EUROPE CENTERED IN BRIAND BATTLE FOR SUPPORT

Takes His Fight Right to Cabinet and Deputies Chamber.

BULLETIN
Cannes, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Briand will leave Cannes for Paris at 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced this morning, not only to inform the French cabinet as to the status of the negotiations here, but, it is understood, to meet and answer criticisms of certain groups of the opposition and to demand that the Chamber support or reject him.

Cannes, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—While the allied supreme council met today to consider Germany's war reparations, much of the interest of the delegates was centered in Paris where the French cabinet was to hold a special session to consider France's position as the result of the decisions reached here.

Approval by the council last night of the plan for formation of an international financial corporation left the reparations questions as the most important item left on the agenda. The conference with the German reparations delegation, under Dr. Walter Rathenau, which was to arrive today were expected to be brief.

Has Power to Act

No delays will be granted for the purpose of conferring with Berlin, and advices from the German capital are that the delegation has full powers to act in the name of its government. The desire of Germany to participate in the consortium which is going to engage in the enterprise of restoring Europe, including Austria and Russia, to normal conditions, is counted on to overcome any hesitancy she might have to subscribe to the allies' new terms.

The final terms for reparations payments that the German delegation will be asked to accept are 720,000,000 gold marks and reparations in kind to the value of 1,750,000,000 gold marks annually. France, finally renouncing any part of the 1,000,000,000 marks already paid, will get 1,125,000,000 marks of the payments in kind each year, the remainder going as follows: 240,000,000 to Italy; 160,000,000 to Great Britain; 125,000,000 to Belgium; 7,000,000 to Japan and the rest to other beneficiaries under the treaty.

Of the 720,000,000 gold marks payable in cash in 1922, Great Britain will get 195,000,000 of which she will loan 135,000,000 to France, the loan being repayable from later cash payments by Germany to France. The rest will apply on Belgium's priority.

This division applies only to the present year, the idea being that the payments in cash be in part applied

TONIGHT'S GAME MAY BE LAST AT HOME FOR "A. C."

Sterling Team Will Be Opponents of Local Quintet.

The Dixon A. C.'s will clash with the Sterling Athletic Association basketball quintet this evening in the Knights of Columbus hall, in what may be the last game of the season to be played at home. The Athletics have been bringing some of the fastest teams obtainable to Dixon, but the fans have failed to patronize the games well and Manager Witham will decide after tonight's game whether he will continue to book games at home or take the Athletics out of town for the remainder of the season.

Sterling has an exceptionally strong lineup and will give the A. C.'s a hard battle. Recently the Sterling team was defeated by Morrison by one point and the A. C.'s defeated Morrison, the hardest contenders they have had this year, which assures a strong bill for this evening. The game will start promptly at 8:15.

"No Business," Coal Mines Closed Down

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Some coal mines in Illinois that have withstood all previous stumps in business, since the day of their organization are closing down, according to reports received here, with no other explanation than "no business."

Among the latest to close in this vicinity was the Springfield district mine at Riverton, which had operated 15 years without a stop. Its four hundred men are now looking elsewhere for work. The management announced the closing was for an indefinite time.

Other reports today were that mines in Mt. Olive, Staunton and Gillespie have closed.

Veterans Asked to Look for Canadian

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11.—Harold Mac Nider, National Commander of the American Legion, today issued a bulletin to all legion posts, asking their assistance in a search for Thomas Dace, vice president of the Great War Veterans of Canada, who has been missing for some time.

Mr. Dace, whose home is in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, was last seen in Winnipeg on Dec. 23, and was believed to have been on his way to Minnesota. He had been ill for some time as a result of wounds received in the world war. Mr. Dace is described as 38 years old, 5 feet 4 and a half inches tall, weighs 153 pounds, has black hair and grey eyes.

Fighting Cocks Are Equipped with Gloves

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 11.—Turkeys, fancy fowl and other poultry and rabbits filled the international amphitheatre at the Union Stock Yards today when the National Poultry Show and Chicago Breeders' Association opened. The displays of capon and turkey attracted unusual attention and were said to be the largest ever shown here.

The feature event on the program for the day was a boxing contest in a miniature prize ring between little fighting cocks who were small boxing gloves over their spurs.

Barn and Garage at Singer Home Burned

A barn and garage on the property of William Singer, 110 Palmyra avenue, were totally destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock this morning. The auto was in the garage, but was saved. Considerable hay, farm tools, harnesses, and many other articles used about the place were destroyed. It is not known whether the buildings were insured, as Mr. Singer is at Manitowish, Wis. He has been sent for and will arrive home sometime tomorrow. The damage is estimated at something between $1500 and $2000.

Bomb Thrown at Car in Belfast Missed

Belfast, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—A bomb was thrown at a tram car bearing 75 persons to their work in a Crumlin Road district today. The quick action of the driver, who put on full speed when he heard a revolver shot, resulted in the missile going wide of the mark. The explosion splintered the car.

A man and his wife living nearby, who went to the door of their home to learn the cause of the commotion, were shot dead by a volley of rifle fire which swept the street.

to payment of interest on series A of the German bonds to the value of 1,000,000,000 gold marks, now in the hands of the reparations commission to secure payment of 519,000,000 gold marks to Belgium, 450,000,000 to Great Britain and 31,000,000 to Italy.

RESORTS EAST OF CITY WERE GIVEN SEARCH

Prisoners Held Under Bonds for Hearings Late in Week.

Acting under instructions from State's Attorney Mark C. Keller, and following investigations made by Volstead operators, a force of constables raided a number of places in the vicinity of the Sandusky cement plant last night about 6:30 and arrested the keepers of the various houses on charges of possessing and selling intoxicating liquors.

City officials and members of the local police department served as specially appointed constables and led the raid. As replies they were taken to the police station, where Justice Grover W. Gehant held open court until an early hour this morning. In each case the officers were armed with search warrants and the premises were searched thoroughly.

Raided Six Places
The following places were raided and the keepers of the houses arrested and brought to Dixon: Adam Fazzal store and residence on River road; Dan Wolfe store in Sandusky cement company building; Constantin Gredinar, also known as Black Joe, residence on Dayville road; John Nieves, boarder in cement plant hotel; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Woodyatt, proprietors of the cement hotel; John Knoll, residing in cement company's house on Dayville road and Miss Mattie Parker, colored, residence on Dayville road.

At the cement plant hotel a large quantity of liquor in bottles was found and seized. At the Adam Fazzal store considerable home made wine and some liquor was found. Because of alleged flagrant violations, Dan Wolfe, proprietor of the store in the cement company's new building, was arrested by federal officers, his place of business searched and a quantity of liquor found. Wolfe was taken direct to Freeport by a Deputy United States Marshal.

At the Constantin Gredinar resort, which has been the scene of numerous raids, a small quantity of liquor was found and two complete sets of gambling paraphernalia were taken.

Arraigned Last Night

The raid was completed in a short time and all prisoners arraigned for preliminary hearing before Justice Gehant at the police station. Miss Mattie Parker, colored, furnished bonds in the sum of $800 and her case was continued until Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

John Knoll, who came to this vicinity recently from Canton, Ill., is the father of 12 children and resides on one of the cement company's new houses facing on the Dayville road. No liquor was found in the house, but there was evidence of several gallons having been in an upstairs room recently and Knoll admitted having disposed of a still to Black Joe a few days ago. Knoll was unable to furnish bonds in the sum of $800 and was taken to the county jail. His case was also continued until Friday morning.

John Nieves, a Peruvian, boarding at the Cement plant hotel was unable to furnish bonds in the amount of $800 and was sent to the county jail, his case being continued until Monday morning.

Adam Fazzal furnished bonds in the sum of $800 and his case was continued until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

"Black Joe" to Jail

Constantin Gredinar, also known as "Black Joe" was held under bonds of $1500 and being unable to furnish this at a late hour last night, was sent to jail. All of the defendants were trying to arrange for bonds today. Gredinar's bond was fixed at the highest amount on account of this being his second offense.

It was learned this morning that Don Wolfe, who was arrested by federal authorities last evening before the raid began, was taken direct to Freeport. This morning he was taken before United States Commissioner Stanley M. Vance in that city on a charge of having in his possession and selling alcoholic liquor in violation of the federal prohibition act. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held to the April federal grand jury under bonds of $1000. The bond was signed by Steve Buberick, who also resides near the cement plant, east of Dixon.

Seek Ringleader
A well known party, said to be the ring leader of the liquor ring in and about Dixon which has given the city and county authorities no end of trouble, is still at large and is believed to be evading arrest. The necessary papers have been issued from State's Attorney's office and officers expect to have him in custody before nightfall, provided that he has not left this locality.

Flagrant violations are said to have come to the attention of the special

Today's Market Report (By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

Grain Market: Strong at Close of Trades

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Jan. 11.—Wheat prices developed strength in the early trading today owing largely to absence of confirmation of yesterday's report that French banks were in trouble. Blackish bulls contended, that the outlook of the new crop in the southwest remained doubtful. Selling pressure was light. Opening prices, which ranged from unchanged figures to 1c higher, with May 1.09 to 1.09 1/2, and July 98 3/4 to 98 1/2, were followed by material further gains.

Foreigners appeared to be liberal buyers of future deliveries of wheat, and there was talk of big export business.

Wheat closed strong 1 1/2 to 2 1/2c net higher, with May 1.10 1/2 to 1.10 3/4 and July 99 1/2 to 1.00.

Commission house buying gave armistice to corn and oats. After opening 1/2 to 3/4c higher, May 52 1/2 to 53 1/2, the corn market scored slight general gains.

Oats started 1/2 to 3/4c up, May 38 to 38 1/2, and then hardened a little more.

Provisions rose with hogs and grain.

RECORDS OF HANGINGS OF SOLDIERS SENT TO DEPT. WITNESS SAYS

No Attempt at Secrecy, Asst. Judge Advocate Testifies.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Complete records in the cases of American soldiers hanged after court martial in France were cable immediately to the War Department, Col. Walter A. Bethel, Assistant Judge Advocate General in the army, testified today before a senate committee investigating charges that soldiers were put to death without trial.

Col. Bethel had been pressed by Senator Watson, democrat, of Georgia whose charges in the senate led to the appointment of the committee, as to why no reports of legal executions were made public until long after the Armistice.

—We sent the department the name of the man hanged, the facts of the execution, and the offense," Colonel Bethel said. "I do not know how soon the department made the facts public."

Names of men hanged were not given to the press out of consideration for relatives, the witness said.

Touching on the case of Benjamin King of Wilmington, N. C., who, according to previous witnesses, was killed by orders of "Hard Bolled" Smith, an officer in charge of a prison guard, Colonel Bethel reiterated that available war department records "indicated" that King was killed in action or died of wounds. No evidence he said, had been obtained to support the charge that King was murdered, and information to this effect has been conveyed to his family.

News Was Published

Questioned by Chairman Brandegee, Colonel Bethel declared notice of executions was published overseas in general court martial orders and were sent to all organizations with the expeditionary forces.

"Probably most of the enlisted soldiers did not know about the cases," Colonel Bethel added, "but the army endeavored to have everybody informed about executions."

"Was any effort made to keep the hanging news from being sent to this country?"

"Not at all."

There were several references to Frank H. ("Hard Bolled") Smith who Col. Bethel said, had been sentenced to three years' imprisonment for cruelty to prisoners. He had recommended that the term was reduced to 18 months, Colonel Bethel added.

"Would a war correspondent have been permitted to send the news of the legal executions?" Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, asked.

"I would not attempt to answer that because I know nothing about the actual working of the press censorship," the Colonel replied. Senator Watson asked that Representative Johnson, republican, of South Dakota, who had stated in the house that it probably was true that soldiers at the front had been shot by their officers because they had become demoralized or showed cowardice, be summoned.

Colonel Bethel said that while he had no personal knowledge of such shooting, "it may have happened."

"I can imagine circumstances where an officer would be justified in shooting a man to prevent a stampede," he added. "Such a shooting would not be for punishment, but to prevent dissolution of the ranks."

FARMERS OF STATE IN MEETING; 1500 THERE AT OPENING SESSION

Taxation, Transportation, Marketing Are Among Their Problems.

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Opposition to the suggestion that the Illinois Agricultural Association endorse favorable candidates for the legislature and congress as the anti-saloon league does, was so strong among delegates at the opening of the Farmers' State Convention here this morning that it was predicted the plan will never be offered for debate.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Taxation, transportation, legislation and marketing were questions the organized farmers of Illinois grappled with immediately upon the convening of the annual meeting here this morning of the Illinois Agricultural Association. There were approximately 1,500 farmers present, representing farm bureaus in 95 counties.

William H. Malone of Parkridge, Cook county, a member of the Illinois Tax Commission was one of the first to appear on the rostrum. He declared his sympathy for the farmers in their opposition to the increase in the equalized value of farm lands. The tax commission, acted against his wishes, he said, in voting to add $44,923,384 in equalizing lands without any corresponding increase on certain other classes of property.

Mr. Malone continued that he was glad to see the farmers coming before the tax commission, with a strong organization behind them. For years, he said, only railroads and public utilities have had this advantage.

Marketing a Problem.

Calling the committee to order, President Howard Leonard touched on the matter of marketing.

"Marketing," he said, "is as much the farmers problem as efficient production behind the plow at home. And side by side with the great fundamental work of co-operative marketing of farmers must go other problems. Transportation, not only by rail, but by water and road. Without proper credit facilities there can be no orderly marketing."

President Leonard's address was a key note, indicating the tone of recommendations which will shape themselves before tonight. The trend of discussion by the 260 voting delegates favored greater activity in transportation, finance, taxation and legislative problems.

Officers for the year will be elected tonight.

Harvey Again Able to Attend Meeting

Cannes, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain, attended today's session of the allied supreme council meeting, having almost completely recovered from the shock he suffered in an automobile accident on Monday. The members of the council heartily congratulated him on his narrow escape.

New Smith assisted a Sterling orchestra at the production of "The Girl from the Tropics," at the Academy of Music in that city last evening.

Public Amazed at Continued Enormous Demand for Tanlac

People All Over America Want to Know What Is Behind the Phenomenal Success of This Preparation That Makes It the World's Greatest Tonic.

Day after day the question is being asked all over the United States and Canada: What is the reason for the phenomenal success of Tanlac? Why do we hear so much about it? and, Why do Tanlac sales keep increasing every year, when other medicines seem to have a short-lived popularity and are then forgotten?

The answer is simple enough. The test of time has proven to people all over the American continent that Tanlac always produces most gratifying results and that the remarkable relief it brings to be more permanent than ever before believed possible.

Tens of thousands of persons, everywhere, who took it when it was first introduced six years ago, report that they are still enjoying excellent health and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after first trying it out thoroughly and proclaim it the World's Greatest Tonic.

Thousands of men and women of all ages and in all walks of life afflicted with stomach, liver and kidney disorders, some of them of long standing, as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse have testified publicly that they have been fully restored to their normal health, strength and weight by its use.

Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet who suffered with indigestion, headaches, shortness of breath, dizzy spells, sour gassy stomach, coated tongue, foulness of breath, constipation, bad complexion, loss of appetite, sleepless at night and terribly depressed, depressed feelings, state that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by taking Tanlac.

Tanlac has never been advertised as a cure-all or that it would perform unheard-of wonders. The advertising has been clean, straightforward and conservative. Actual facts and figures have been stated and stated in a true, business-like way that has commanded the confidence of all in the conservative claims set forth.

The enormous demand for Tanlac is due to merit alone, for no amount of advertising would continue to sell an article that does not possess real merit. Unless full value underlies the article advertised, the advertising will ultimately fail of its own weight. "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Tanlac has been well advertised, it is true, but such a large and rapidly growing demand could not be brought about by advertising alone. It is what the people themselves say that counts. One bottle of Tanlac is sold in a neighborhood through advertising, but ten more are sold in that same community as a result of the sale of that first bottle and that is why Tanlac has succeeded. People are always willing to talk about their ailments, but they are more than glad to tell others of the medicine that helped them. It is something they could not keep to themselves if they tried, for the impulse to sympathize with your fellow-man and want to help him is one of the strongest, as well as one of the biggest, things in human nature.

That is the reason why the people of every section of the United States and Canada, have become so fond of Tanlac as the World's Greatest Tonic. And that is the reason why the demand for this remarkable medicine has grown to such proportions that it is almost impossible to keep dealers supplied.

Tanlac is sold in Dixon by Thomas Sullivan and the leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

OF DEEPEST WORTH.

These are the things I prize
And hold of deepest worth:
Light of the sapphire skies,
Peace of the silent hills,
Shelter of forest, comfort of the grass,
Shadow of clouds that swiftly pass,
And after showers
The smell of flowers.
And of the good brown earth—
And best of all, along the way,
Friendship and mirth.

PHIDIAN ART CLUB HAD MEETING.

The Phidian Art club met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. A. Ahrens, Mrs. H. C. Warner, the president, presided, and during the business session read a letter from Mrs. C. A. Robbins containing an informal report of the experiment that is being tried out in providing milk for undernourished children of the Dixon school. Up to Dec. 22, 1385 pints of milk were distributed to pupils in the North Central building and many of these show a distinct gain in weight, though the exact statistics are not yet ready for report.

The music of the afternoon was particularly pleasing. Mrs. Blake Grover gave a double number, "The Jesters," by Hueter, and McDowell's "Improvisation." Mrs. Grover responded to the hearty encore.

Miss Marjorie Slothower sang two very charming numbers, "Till I Wake," an Hindu love song by Amy Woodford Finden and as an encore, "Thank God for a Garden," by Del Riego.

Mrs. Petersberger gave a report of the meeting of the Legislative Forum of the Illinois Federation, recently held in Chicago.

"David, the Organizer and Poet-King," was the subject of Mrs. Crabtree's interesting and graphic paper, in which she followed the life of the great king from his days as a shepherd lad on his father's hills to the time of his death, after forty years as ruler of the great Kingdom of Israel.

Mrs. Mark Keller, Mrs. Frank Edwards and Mrs. Leland led in some discussions regarding the Bible questions following the paper.

Coffee and sandwiches were afterward served in the dining room. Mrs. Ray Miller presiding at the table.

REGULAR MEETING W. R. C.

The regular meeting of Dixon Relief Corps No. 218, Auxiliary to the G. A. R. was held on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock in G. A. R. hall.

A Christmas gift of money to the Corps from Comrade Compton was accepted with much applause, and the members appreciate his kindness, thoughtfulness and good wishes, and voted to use the gift to purchase a reminder of his love and esteem.

Joint installation of Dixon Post, and its auxiliary, Dixon Relief Corps, was announced for Tuesday evening, Jan. 17th, in Knights of Columbus hall, to which the public is given a cordial invitation. Officers and escort team please remember "the time and the place" for rehearsal for installation.

IS TO RECOVER LOST HAND BAG.

Mrs. Murray, mother of Dr. Murray of the State Hospital, Dixon, who is here from New York visiting her son, and stopping at the Nachusa Tavern, had the ill luck to lose her leather hand bag on the Lincoln Highway Sunday afternoon. The hand bag was described in the Telegraph. Some tourist, passing through, had found the bag, and reading of the loss in the Telegraph notified Mrs. Murray that her bag was being returned to her. This shows that it really does pay to advertise and also that faith in human nature is rewarded. The bag contained with other articles, $9.00 and some change.

OFFICERS AND TEACHERS IN MEETING.

The officers and teachers of the West Side Congregational Sunday school held a meeting last evening at the church. A scramble supper preceded the meeting and after the meeting games and music were enjoyed. During the evening Mrs. Richardson gave an interesting talk on Community meetings and advocated having them. There were twenty present. The entire evening was much enjoyed.

MRS. HUGUET CELEBRATES 84TH BIRTHDAY THURSDAY.

Mrs. Sara Huguet, one of the pioneers of Dixon and one of this city's highly esteemed women, will tomorrow celebrate her 84th birthday anniversary. Many friends will hasten to extend congratulations.

Although confined to her bed, Mrs. Huguet radiates a spirit of brave helpfulness and good cheer which is most invigorating.

LIVE NEWS FROM DEMENTTOWN

Always Fresh and Wholesome
"A LIVE TOWN OF OUR OWN"

"Some folks spend so much time preparing for the worst that they are really disappointed when the worst does not happen."

Amos Bosworth was with us this morning. He said he was bound for Peoria to look after some important matters. Amos doesn't visit us very often and when he does we are always very happy to greet him.

With Amos Bosworth was our County Judge, John B. Crabtree. The judge told us he was also going to Peoria. He had no suitcase or grip with him, so we guess he's making but one day of it. John said he might have a few minutes time in Nelson to take a squint down one of his fences to see if the pickets are all regular.

Miss Marjorie Slothower was calling on the avenue early this morning. She took the Peoria train for a short trip.

John Sheehan of Chicago was busy shaking hands with old avenue friends. He returned to Chicago. John is now with the Pullman company.

Bavarians Still Sore at Americans

Berlin, Jan. 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Munich theatre-goers are still touchy on the subject of America. It appears from an incident just reported here.

The Neue Berliner Zeitung tells how an audience in the Bavarian capital fairly raised the roof in objecting to the American background and American names being used in a new theatrical production. They hooted and stamped, and finally the performance was brought to a stop.

The authorities, when the manager was brought before them forbade him from producing the play unless the scenes were placed in some other country than the United States. The versatile producer readily complied and laid his scenes in the Caucasus.

The name of one character was changed from "Smith" to "Smirski" and that of "Gladys, Chicago Doll" to "Princess" to "Martha Petrograd, Millionaire's daughter." The metamorphosed play was a success.

CONFERENCE OF OLDER BOYS OF PALMYRA TOWN

Active Work of Lee Co. Y. M. C. A. is Outlined.

Secretary A. E. Conrad of Ashton, of the County Y. M. C. A., was in Dixon Tuesday afternoon on his way to Palmyra, where last evening he held a conference of the boys of the older group in the Palmyra church. Last Sunday Secretary Conrad was at Palmyra when he organized the younger boys.

Friday evening of this week there will be held at Franklin Grove a Community "bean-feed" for the boys of that place and vicinity. This affair promises to be a very entertaining venture. There is at Franklin Grove a council of boys in splendid working order.

Jan. 20, the county organization will hold another father and son banquet at Ashton. A program is now being arranged. Ashton, as all Y workers know, is the county seat of the county organization work.

Secretary Conrad is now working on a strong program for a meeting of some sort to be held in Amboy in the near future. The secretary is well pleased with the progress the county organization is making.

Fatty to Trial for Second Time Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Jan. 11—Roscoe Arbuckle's second trial on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, took the top place on the calendar today before Superior Judge Harold Louderback. The jury in the first case disagreed.

Attorneys for both defense and prosecution have expressed belief that this trial, which is to be conducted on a grand jury indictment, will be longer than the first one. It is expected to develop into a legal battle between District Attorney Matthew Brady of San Francisco County and Gavin McNab, chief of the Arbuckle defense staff.

A venire of 60 prospective jurors have been called and several days are expected to pass before selection has been completed.

Miss Rappe died, it is alleged, as a result of injuries inflicted by Arbuckle at a drinking party staged last Labor Day, Sept. 5, in his rooms at a local hotel here.

BOTTLED IN BOND

How much bottled-in-bond whisky remains stored in warehouses throughout the country? About 38, 000,000 gallons, answers Millard F.
West, deputy commissioner of internal revenue.

Rum bounds will figure out that this is 2,432,000,000 drinks or 23 for every man, woman and child in America.

It seems a lot.

But warehouse stocks of whisky 18 months ago were 50,000,000 gallons compared with 38,000,000 gallons now.

The complete exit of John Barleycorn, except on doctor's prescriptions is just a matter of arithmetic.

In a very few years pure whisky,
sold outside the law, will be worth $100 a quart. There'll be plenty of fools who'll pay that.

Pure aged whisky nears extinction.
Poison circulates in its place. Interesting days for the student of criminology.

You read that the mortality among prohibition enforcement officials along the Mexican border is higher than among the American fighting forces that saw action in France.

Liquor officials watching for smugglers from Canada, at Rouse's Point, N. Y., report nonchalantly that pistol battles with rum-runners are almost every-day occurrences. "Most if not all of the bootleggers carry automatic pistols."

Rich men's cellar stocks are looted. So are bonded warehouses. Forgers turn out fake withdrawal permits. Counterfeiters duplicate internal revenue stamps by the hundreds of thousands. The bottle traffic has attracted to it an unprecedented organization of dangerous criminals.

The spasm of crime accompanying the bottle traffic does not mean that prohibition is going to be a farce or a failure in the long run.

John Barleycorn is like a vicious maniac who writhes violently for some time after he gets into the strait-jacket.

The net will tighten in time. State legislatures may have to amend laws, make it a death penalty to sell wood alcohol and other poisons disguised as drinkables.

A PECK OF TROUBLE

Hugh Barrens is in court, charged with baking and selling small white loaves of bread under weight.

The chief of police appears against him. He demands that Barrens be fined 150 guilders and not allowed to sell bread for a year and six weeks.
"Fine of 25 guilders and costs!"
droned the magistrate.

This trial took place 300 years ago
in old New York, then known as New Amsterdam, with a population of about 300.

Some of those old New Amsterdam trials make us wonder if after all, our troubles are much different from those of our ancestors.

For instance: The shout, or chief of police, arrested Dirk Janze, Dirk's offense, it developed in court, was sassing the shout and gauding him beyond endurance with abuse.

"A fine of 500 guilders and costs, or put him on bread and water for six weeks!" the shout urged.

The judge cut the fine to 50 guild-
ers. Dirk appealed the case and, under his lawyer's wing, "says the devil shall take him who first attempts to arrest him."

Francois De Bhuyne hated the tax collector and subpoena server. He landed in court for striking and insulting the court messenger and the fiscal, De Sille.

A squad of soldiers had to be called to get Francois into court. Magistrate fined him 200 guilders.

"Defendant says he will rot in prison first."

Apparently he was a man of influence, probably the friend of a wardbeeler, for the magistrate ruled, "He shall be imprisoned—in a respectable tavern."

The New Amsterdam court records of 300 years ago refer to the case of Hendrick Jansen Clearbought Vanter Goes, "charged with speaking words involving capital punishment."

The records do not disclose the nature of Hendrick's utterances that made him liable to the death penalty.
Probably they involved treason to the government for all New Amsterdam was about the toughest town in the world and nearly anything went.

Hendrick found guilty was let off with a whipping branded and banishment for life.

The printing press was introduced to America about 80 years later, and with it came the battle for free speech.

THE NEXT WAR

The flying torpedo, steered by wire, less and carrying tons of high explosives and poison gases, is now ready for use in battle.

Joseph Wright, naval expert, says
these torpedoes could be sent from Europe with the precision of rifle bullets and made to drop in any selected town.

A swarm of 3000 of them would wreck New York City. Flying torpedoes carrying 200 tons of phosgene gas would kill every person in New York is scientifically masked against
it. Dixon is equally vulnerable.

Politicians seem unable to disarm
the world. Science will do the job.
The next big war, if fought, will ruin
and virtually exterminate both sides.

DEBT

Here's a silver lining for your clouds. The national debt has been reduced $1,535,978,676 in the last 17
months.

This pulls it down to $23,438,984,351
at the start of 1922.

At this rate, the whole national debt would be wiped out in about 23 years. Part of it should be passed on to future generations when the refund plan is framed.

MECHANICAL

New York City will speed up its traffic by installing powerful searchlights, which will regulate autos on nearly every street of Manhattan Island.

Red lights will stop all north-and-south traffic and start the east-and-west flow.

Civilization is becoming an automatic machine. Can individual initiative survive? It is rare enough now.

DOLLARS

The new silver dollar, pretty to look at, is objected to by some bank tellers. It's too thick. Pile 20 on top of each other and a slight jar will topple the stack.

This is typical of many things done by man. Function or purpose of a thing is neglected, to improve its form. Like a $15,000,000 postoffice building with huge marble corridors and about a tenth as many stamp windows as are needed to prevent delay.

Real art is efficiency of function.

LIQUOR

Are whisky, wine or beer necessary for medicinal purposes? Journal of the American Medical Association put that question to 12,316 physicians in 19 states.

Only 2668 physicians supported wine.

On whisky, the doctors broke about even, 6797 for and 6519 against.
What would a poll of the doctors'
patients show?

AUTOS

Passenger autos and trucks produced in United States during 1921 totaled 1,650,000.

The 1920 output was 2,210,000 vehicles.

The drop in actual number of cars was 24 per cent.

Figuring it in money or combined wholesale prices, the drop was 45 per cent.
The 45 per cent figure will be most widely quoted and mourned over. The price bug still persists in many heads measuring business in terms of shrinking dollars instead of actual physical volume, tons, bushels, etc.

MORE

In upper Silesia, the average miner is digging 130 tons of coal a year, compared with 340 tons before the war. British miner's yearly output has dropped from 258 to 204 tons.
That's an interesting sidelight on what's wrong with Europe.

In contrast, the American worker in nearly every industry is speeding up—producing more, since the war ended.

We'll be out of the woods before any other country. The American workman's best weapon against foreign goods is fast production. Increased production eventually means increased prosperity—for the producer and all others.

JURIES

A man, charged with shooting and killing is acquitted by a Chicago jury.
The judge thunders "You have turned a murderer out on the streets."

It is a rare city that does not frequently hear similar charges from the bench, these days.

The weakest link in our system of justice is the neglect of the jury system. Until level-headed citizens stop dodging jury duty, there is little hope of putting a real brake on crime. The criminal has the jury dodger on his side.

SOLD

Nearly a third of our total exports in the last three years was foodstuffs.
Eighty-three per cent of these went to Europe.

American manufacturers are turning to Latin-America and the Orient for new markets.

The farmer can't do that. His market hasn't moved. It's still in Europe.

When Europe recovers financially,
our farmers will be first to benefit.

WANG

Disarmament reduces the engines of war. But it does not remove the causes of war. That's the view of Dr. C. H. Wang, member of China's delegation to the arms-limitation conference.

Peace is a moral obligation, says
Wang. He says nations will stop warring when they treat each other as decent men treat their neighbors.

Real disarmament must begin in the hearts and minds of the world's people. To save the next generation from war, teach your children to loathe war.

RIDES THROUGH CAFE.

dent in Paris regarded he could ride
his horse through a popular boulevard cafe at the most crowded hour of the day. He did it and didn't break a single glass.

BALLOONATICK

At the gate itself a keeper stepped out and asked for the password.

The town of Balloonatick was very queer, as Nancy and Nick could see, even before Buskins led the way in through the big gate.

At the gate itself a keeper stepped out and asked for the password.
"Thingamagum!" said Buskins quickly.

Nancy said, "Thingamagum," and so did Nick.

"Any matches?" asked the gatekeeper.

"No matches," said Buskins.
Nancy said "No matches," and so did Nick.

The big gate swung open and the three travelers entered like conquering heroes. "Buskins on his green pa-

and Nick on his blue puddy."

The city was built of tissue paper;
houses, towers streets and bridges were of tissue paper. It was a city of Fourth of July balloons.

The twins thought it the most curious of all their adventures, this Land-of-Up-in-the-Air.

Down the street they rode, trying not to stare too curiously at all they saw, but it was most difficult to remember one's manners with tissue paper people going about as though they were quite the usual thing.

A very fat Humpty-Dumpty was talking to a very hearty Uncle Sam,
and jolly old King Cole was riding down street on a lemon-yellow puss-ycat, talking most amiably to a stout Queen of Hearts sedately riding a purple rooster.

All of them had hurried away from the earth and come up to the sky to live. No one paid the slightest attention to the visitors, so the children began to think that their manners were wasted. We like to be noticed when we're polite.

Buskins took them next to the hospital where the balloons were repaired that got burned a bit on the way.

"And now," said he, "we must go back to our apple-tree elevator. We have still much to see."

VENTILATION

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

A few weeks ago a nurse from a board of health was called to examine the children in a township school. It was reported by the teachers that children were suffering from sore throats or developing contagious disease.

A thorough inspection of the noses and throats of the children revealed greatly reddened and thickened mucous membrane, but no sign of contagion. The cause of these conditions was later found to be tightly fastened down windows and a large hot stove
in a small room.

Nothing can contribute more rapidly to the lowering of resistance than extremely high temperature and poor
ventilation.

The modern, artificial system of ventilation so widely used in larger school buildings frequently fails to fall

under the true definition of ventilation.
Most of these systems demand that no one open a window and let in some real fresh air.

Tests have been made again and again which conclusively prove that children enjoy better health and make greater progress when they have open window ventilation.

Vendors of these ventilating systems claim that such systems keep the rooms warm. This is true. In most cases they keep the rooms too warm.
The temperature of a room should never exceed 68 degrees Fahrenheit.
Growth is not stimulated by heat. Inhabitants of temperate zone always have led the world in every field of progress.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

CHAPTER LXIX.

AM I BLIND? AM I DISFIGURED?

Gairree, the beautiful, had not waited to be urged from her branch by a wee shock from an electrically charged wire.

She had taken her own part in the scene very well indeed and of her own initiative.

Mademoiselle Elsa was responsible for the big cat's freedom to do as she pleased. Mademoiselle Elsa had been so sure of her pet that she had neither doped nor chained her.

Gairree's pictures were magnificent,
she had scolded and snarled at me as I played with her cub and then she had made one magnificent curve of her body through the atmosphere and had landed on me without waiting for her cue—or for my dummy to be shoved into position.

Dick was by my side as soon as Elsa. The camera's told a most exciting story but it had no place in the play.

"I 'came to' on the softest cot in "the dugout." My eyes were covered with wet bandages. My head ached and felt as large as a bag of flour. I ran my fingers over my hair, over my face.

A laundry bag has as attractive an outline as my profile. My entire head was encased in wrappings of white medicated cotton.

What the first aid of 50 intelligent persons could accomplish had been done for me. The phone wire which had been strung through the forest brought a country doctor from the nearest town.

He would stay with me until a certain famous specialist summoned by long distance could arrive.

"Don't tell Motherdear! Don't tell Motherdear!"

That was my only reply when anyone asked what could be done to make me comfortable.

I didn't know myself whether I was blind or not. I didn't know whether I was scarred. I only realized that I was a little girl who was suffering a good deal and that I was alone among strangers.

And because I was alone, I must be very brave.

The specialist came, examined me refused to make a positive decision.
My eyelids were swollen tight, and there were scratches across my forehead and cheek. He was very indefinite. Blood poisoning might develop.
He felt sure the eyeballs were not injured. But he didn't wish to speak positively. Elie! I made Mrs. Nandy
tell me what he said.

He wanted to get me back to town
as speedily as possible.

GOSSARDIAN IN FINE TRIBUTE TO CLARK L. GILL, 1848-1921

Company's Magazine in Memorial Mention of Dixon Man.

The Gossardian prints a most complimentary article in regard to Clark L. Gill, for many years associated with the Gossard Co., and a man who endeared himself to many Dixon friends. The article which pays a beautiful tribute to the memory of Mr. Gill follows:

"We cannot question the wisdom of the Great Ruler who shapes our destinies, though there are times when the decrees are heartbreaking in their apparent severity and untimeliness. The passing on of a dear, dear friend and co-worker comes as a shock to the entire Gossard organization."

After a lingering illness, covering a period of over fourteen weeks, Clark L. Gill, office manager of the Dixon plant, passed away to the Great Beyond, Thursday evening, Nov. 10th. His age was 73 years, 9 months and 7 days.

For fifteen years, Mr. Gill has been in the employ of The H. W. Gossard Co., about four years of which he was employed as stock clerk of the Belvidere plant. Here we learned to love him, his beautiful traits and the milk of human kindness endeared us closer to him. He was a man always ready and willing to advise and much admired by all who came in contact with him.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his demise, a sister living in Palestine, Ill., the former home of Mrs. Gill; one brother and three sisters having preceded him a number of years ago.

Mr. Gill has gone—a bit before the rest of us—but his beautiful character will always be a matter of wonderful sweetness in our memories.

The funeral service was held in Dixon, Ill., Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13, at 2 o'clock, and interment was made in the Dixon cemetery.

Among those attending from Belvidere were: C. H. Turner, Archie King, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Olive Pristoe, Lauren Bench, Fletcher Perlet, Albert Ewert and Harry Crikshaw.

We feel that we have lost a friend, a loyal co-worker whose services were efficient and whose true gentlemanly qualities were always appreciated by all his associates.

The Gossardian and every member of our large organization, extends sincere sympathy to Mrs. Gill in her bereavement.

Youngstown, Ohio.—"Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just sweep one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if I could get well again.' So I took one bottle and a second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely it must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you."

THREE SPIRITED GAMES OF VOLLEY BALL LAST NIGHT

Three of the fastest volley ball games played so far in the Business Men's Tournament were pulled off on Tuesday evening when the Snails turned on the Terrapins grabbing off 43 points to the Terrapins 35. And close as the scores were the spirit and fiery tempers of the players ran even stronger. The difference between a kid and a man, and a man and a kid is sometimes so slight as to be almost impossible to distinguish—and the boys sure have a whooping good time. The games ran 15-13, 9-15, and 11-15.

Snails: Dutcher, Capt., Rawls, Wilson, Rose, Wheeler, Moore.

Terrapins: Leland, Capt., Potter, Schlöberg, Tidball, Weiss.

Referee: Kuhn.

Score: Dr. Smith.

Local Team Asked to Enter Tourney

An invitation has been received by the local volley ball team to participate in the Northern District Volley Ball tournament which is to be held at Elgin, Jan. 30. According to present plans the team will enter and the men are in hopes of coming home with high honors. The winner of this tournament goes to the state tournament.

Standing motionless in the dreadful gloom of blindness, insensible to the growing cold, Bill made himself look his situation in the face.

Finally his thought seized upon an idea so fantastic, seemingly impossible of achievement, that at first he could not give it credence.

His snowshoe tracks probably were not yet obliterated under the wind-blown snow. Could he feel his way along them back to the cabin?

The miles were many and long, but he would have to creep on hands and knees all the way. He groped about at the side of the cabin for his snowshoes.

He found them in a minute, then walked straight as he could fifty feet out from the door. Once more he went on hands and knees, groping in the icy snow. He started to make a great circle.

Fifteen feet farther he felt a break in the even surface. The snow had been so soft and his shoes had sunk so deep that the powdered flakes the wind had strewn during the night had only half filled his tracks. He started to follow them down.

He would walk ahead five paces, then drop down and grope again for the tracks. Sometimes he found them at once, often he had to go on his hands and knees and start to circle. Then, finding the trail, he would push on for five steps more.

Oh, the way was cruel! He could not see to avoid the stinging lash of the spruce needles, the cruel blows of the branches. Already the attempt began to partake of a quality of nightmare.

He could not judge distance or time. Already it seemed to him that he had been upon the journey endless hours. He didn't know how far he had come. The only thought he had left was always to count his terrible five steps and count five more.

On and on, through the long hours. But the night was almost done. Exhaustion and hunger, but could most of all, were swiftly breaking him down.

The time came at last when he could no longer get upon his feet. And no, like a Tithonus who could not die, he crawled along the snowshoe trail on his hands and knees.

"I can't go on," he told himself. Yet always his muscles made one movement more.

Suddenly he missed the trail. His hand groped in vain over the white crust, and he started to creep forward again.

But slowly the conviction grew upon him that he was crawling in a small circle—the very circle he had just made. Some way he had missed the snowshoe trail.

Slowly he sank down in the snow.

XIX

When the southeast wind struck the home cabin, Virginia's first thoughts were for Bill. Harold's first thought was also of Bill. He knew what the wind could do to a snow crust. His eyes gleamed with high anticipations, curiously intertwined with the remembrance of the dark cavern laden with gold.

"I only wish I hadn't let him go." The girl's tone was heavy and dull. "But we had to have supplies."

"We could have gone out on that grizzly meat."

The afternoon that followed was endlessly long and lonely. Her heart sank at every complaint of the wind, and she dreaded the fall of the shadows.

All through the hours of early night she slept only at intervals.

She awakened before dawn; and the icy, winter stars were peering through the cabin window.

Shivering, she slipped quickly into her clothes. Then she lighted a candle and put on her snowshoes. She nudged across the little space of snow to the men's cabin.

She knocked on Harold's door. "Who's there?" a sleepy voice answered.

"It's I—Virginia. I'm up and dressed. Did Bill come back?"

"Bill? No—and what on earth are you up this early for? Forget about Bill and go back to bed."

"Listen, Harold," she pleaded. "Don't tell me to go back to bed. I feel—I know something's happened to him. And—and—I want you to go out and look for him."

Harold had no desire to rescue Bill. Besides, he was angry and bitterly jealous at her concern for him.

"You do eh—you'd like to send me out on a bitter night like this on a fool's errand such as that. Where is there a cabin along the way—you'd only kill me without helping him."

"You won't go then?"

"Don't be foolish Virginia."

Angry words rose in her throat but she suppressed them.

She went swiftly to her cabin put on her warmest clothing and as Bill

"COME BACK TO ME BILL—I NEED YOU" SHE TOLD HIM.

had showed her rolled a compact pack for her back.

She took a little package of food—nourishing chocolate and dried meat—the whisky flask that had been her salvation the night of the river experience and stub of a candle for fire building.

Then with never a backward look, she started away, down the dim, wind-blown, snowshoe trail.

XX

Now that the fight was done, Bill lay quite calm and peaceful in the drifts. The pain of the cold and the wrack of exhausted muscles were quite gone.

He was face to face with the flaming truth, and he knew his fate.

On the trail that he had made on the out-journey, and which he had tried so vainly to follow back, Virginia came musing toward him.

It was a long, hard, nerve-racking trek.

Finally where the trail entered the spruce thicket, her keen eyes made out a curious, black shadow against the snow.

The heart in her breast turned to ice, her blood seemed to go still in her veins. She recognized this figure

now. It was Bill, lying still in the frozen drifts.

She fairly raced toward him.

Now she knelt beside him, and with no knowledge of effort turned him over and lifted his head and shoulders into her arms.

His eyes were closed, his face expressionless, his arms dropped limply to his side.

She sobbed softly, and her tears lay on his face.

"Bill, oh, Bill, won't you wake up and speak to me?" she cried. She pleaded softly, but he didn't seem to hear.

"Come back to me, Bill—I need you," she told him. "It's so cold—and I'm afraid. Oh, please open your eyes—"

She kissed him over and over—

XXI

Bill had not been lying long inert in the snow.

And now he thought he was in the midst of some wonderful, glorious dream.

"Virginia," he whispered. "Is it you, Virginia—come to me—?"

Then so clearly that he could no longer retain the delusion of dream, he heard his answer.

"Yes—and I've come to save you."

She gave him liquor. He felt strength returning to his muscles.

He tried to open his eyes.

"I'm blind—" he told her.

"No matter, I'll save you. Can you eat?"

The man nodded.

She thrust a fragment of sweet chocolate into his mouth, permitting it to melt.

"You better get to your feet as soon as you can—and try to get the blood flowing right again. We're only a few miles from the cabin—if you'll just fight we can make it in."

He shook his head. "I can't—I can't go any farther. I can't see the way."

"But I'll lead you. Try with every muscle you've got, Bill—for me!"

She need make no other appeal. She took his hand, and they started mashing over the drifts.

They won at last.

And Harold stared at them like a lifeless thing as Bill recoiled through the cabin doorway. Virginia led him to her own cot, then drew the blankets over him. And she was not so exhausted but that she could continue the fight for his recovery.

"Build up the fire, and do it quick," she ordered Harold. Her tone was terse, commanding, and curiously he leaped to obey her. She removed Bill's snow-covered garments, and as Harold went out to procure more fuel she put the water on the stove to heat. Then, procuring snow, she began to rub Bill's right hand, the hand that had been frozen in his effort to grope for the trail.

It is one of the peculiar faculties of the human body to recover quickly from the effects of severe cold.

About midnight Bill awakened from a long sleep, wholly clear-headed and free from pain. Wet bandages were over his eyes.

He groped and in a moment found Virginia's hands.

She was still sitting beside his bed, wrapped in a blanket.

He started to get up so that she could have her own cot. Gentle she pushed him down.

"But I'm all right now," he told her. "I'm sleepy—and sore—but I'm strong as ever. Let me get to my bed, and get some sleep."

"No. I'm not sleepy yet."

But Bill laughed, the same gay laugh that had cheered her so many times. "It's my turn to be nurse—now," he told her. "Get in quick."

"But I have some blankets spread on the floor," she objected. "I can go to sleep there, when—I'm—tired."

"And I can go to sleep there right now."

With his strong arms he half-lifted her and laid her in his warm place. The touch of his hand was in some way wonderful—so strong, so comforting.

"Good night, Bill," she told him sleepily.

In the hours of refreshing slumber that lasted full into the next morning there was but one curious circumstance.

These were four shots, one swiftly upon another. Four—and the figure four had a puzzling, yet sinister significance to Bill's mind.

Here is the Amazing New CHANDLER SIX It Scraps Previous Motor Car Values!

All That You Seek in a Motor Car is Here

Durability

The rugged, indestructible, noiseless new rear axle, with rigidly mounted differential and oversize taper roller bearings, the deep channelled frame, soundly bound cross members and staunchly engineered motor base mean herculean strength and sturdiness.

Safety

It has reserve power, service brakes that take hold at a touch, emergency brake on transmission that minimizes side skidding, big non-skid cord tires on all four wheels. It is low, hugs the road and is absolutely stable on the short turns.

Economy

The astonishingly low price of this Chandler and the wonderful gasoline, oil, tire and service economy meet the nation-wide demand for lower cost.

Comfort

The long, underslung rear spring suspension of the new Chandler Six gives superlative riding comfort. The wide, low, relaxful seats and backs have unusually deep springs and soft, yielding cushions.

Smartness and Beauty

The smart style and luxury of the Chandler set new standards. The deep, nickeled radiator, the smart aluminum steps, the rigid, full-moulded fenders with leather splashes, the fine upholstery of genuine hand buffed leather, the big barrel-type head-lamps, the nickeled windshield, are only a few of the distinctively stylish touches of this Chandler.

Silence

Completely silent operation marks the Chandler Six. The entire chassis is exceptionally clean and free from movable rods and parts. The large rear axle revolves silently on big roller bearings and the differential gears produce no sound. Camshaft, magneto and water pump are driven by silent chain.

Power

Chandler's marvelous motor with added refinements, develops astonishing power and flexibility. Magneto ignition is positive and never failing.

In Line With a Nation's Demand for Economy

In this new car Chandler engineers have gone far beyond current practice in a score of ways and have introduced far-reaching betterments in chassis and body design.

Individually important for better service, increased riding comfort, longer life and greater strength and safety—these improvements combined have produced an epoch-making car.

Such chassis construction, such body design, such care in detail and appointments have never been encountered except in the very highest priced cars.

This new Chandler Six is a smart, luxurious car—as distinctive in every way as if it were custom-built.

Style as manifested in this latest Chandler is a subtle achievement that defies expression. It is newness with beauty, sturdiness with grace, power with lightness and poise. It is individual character—but not mere novelty nor eccentricity.

In performance this new car fulfills every promise of its splendid appearance. The marvelous motor, brought to the highest efficiency, will increase the fame of its 100,000 predecessors.

Only long experience in motor car building, backed by financial strength and unusual buying power, make possible this latest Chandler at so remarkably low a price.

You will want to see this wonderful car—the motor car sensation of 1922.
